~ KIDS' STORIES OF POP ~

Pop and I shared a birthday, and I always loved both of us rushing to see who could say happy birthday first on our birthday calls. As kids, we would run wild around the house and dig through pop's shed, he would always fake being annoyed but secretly would love it and smile cheekily after. I was always so happy and excited when pop would let me drive the lawnmower with him - he technically taught me to drive!

My trips to Wangaratta as a child are full of fond memories of Pop. Whether he was showing us how to hit golf balls out of the shed, teaching us to drive on the lawn mower, or trying not to get bitten by Elliot the alpaca when giving him some stale bread, there was never a dull moment with him. Spending time with Pop is something I'll always cherish.

One of my favourite memories of Pop was watching him chop wood in his slippers. He taught me everything there is to know when it comes to chopping wood and making fires. Whether it was him getting annoyed with Elliot the alpaca, or hearing him snore from down the hallway, he always made my day better when I was around him. Pop will forever be the essence of love and compassion to me.

Of pop's later years, what I will remember most is the endless stories he told while at St John's, these would range from who was playing cricket, in the middle of winter, to what he saw outside his window. I will never forget his appetite for sweet treats as we would frequently find large collections of lollies in his drawers.

What I will remember about pop is how much he spoiled us when we were with him, I used to love going to nan and pops house because it was so fun. We used to go fishing, feed Elliot the alpaca, build forts, drive the ride-on mower and anything else we wanted. I used to also go to the footy at Moyhu every week with nan and pop because they used to let me get lollies from the canteen that Mum would never allow me to have.

What I loved about pop was how excited he was when we used to go and see him at St John's. He used to call me Cobber. His best story was when we visited his window during COVID and he said he saw a UFO outside and it was coming for him. He always cared about us and always asked how Football or cricket went.
